Hello Everyone –

Every week I am astounded by what week we are in. Did anyone think we would be out this long?

Lots going on.

We will begin Phase I of our reopening plan on August 31st when a core team of staff will be in the building. They will work for two weeks to ready the building for our limited reopening on September 14.

The first shipment of our sanitizing carts (12 of 27) will arrive this upcoming Monday. Having those onsite was a condition of our reopening. The remainder will arrive Labor Day week.

Library furniture has been removed and stored appropriately. I hope you saw Ginger's photos of the new 5th floor furniture and of the reconfigured for physical distancing 2nd floor. Looks great.

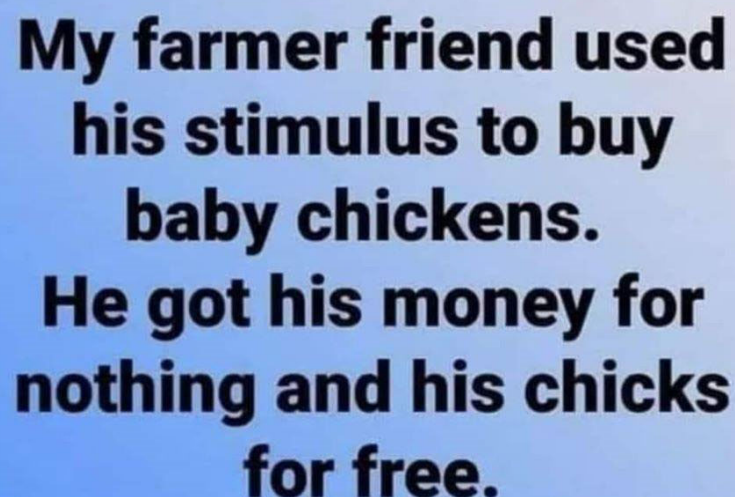

Ginger and Patrick have been amazing during these 23 weeks. Applause, applause!

We are getting near the finish line with the RML grant work. I am not sure Tony and Nancy ever sleep (along with some others)!

Congratulations to Emily Gorman and Colette Beaulieu who had photos in the second issue of 1807 -UMB's Art and Literary Journal. I have attached a copy of the cover and of Colette's and Emily's photos – they are beautiful! My photos of the photos don't do them justice. More applause!

Have all of you received your UMB mask? I think we should have a Zoom meeting in Brady Bunch layout so Tara can have a picture of us in our masks! I hear there are different cloth patterns. I don't like mine. 😞

And to send you off into the weekend in good spirits:

My farmer friend used his stimulus to buy baby chickens.
He got his money for nothing and his chicks
for free.

Have a good weekend all!

The narrow "Glass Window Bridge" on the long, thin island of Eleuthera in the Bahamas showcases the breathtaking juxtaposition of the dark, rough waves of the Atlantic Ocean and the calm, tropical waters of the Bight of Eleuthera.
