

April 5, 2021

To the UMB Community:

As part of our efforts to create the 2022-2026 Strategic Plan, members of the University of Maryland, Baltimore (UMB) community participated in a virtual town hall April 1 to discuss the University's draft set of updated core values and how they relate to UMB, our students, faculty, staff, and key stakeholders.

We appreciate the feedback on these updated core values that was provided during the town hall. If you were unable to attend the live town hall, please take time to watch a video of the event.

We also have set up a short survey to collect additional input through April 12. The survey is anonymous, and there is no requirement to have attended or viewed the video before answering the survey.

In addition, please save the date of April 29, 2 p.m., for our next 2022-2026 Strategic Plan Virtual Town Hall, which will focus on the plan's themes. Information on that event will be provided in the coming days.

We value our diverse UMB community's feedback, which is vital to the success of this process, and welcome your thoughts and suggestions on UMB's Strategic Plan as we move forward.

Sincerely,

Judy L. Postmus, PhD, ACSW
