Instructor: Carla List-
Handley, Distinguished
Librarian Emeritus

Date: September 15, 2010

Location: University of Maryland-Baltimore / Health
& Human Services Library
Lower Level Distance
Education Classroom

Time: 9:00am – 4:00pm (1 hour lunch break)

Course Description: This fun & interesting course focuses on the performance aspects of teaching, emphasizing parallels between performing as an actor and "performing" as a teacher. It highlights actor's tools that can be used when teaching in a classroom setting. Participants work with "good" and "bad" teaching, learning styles, and active learning techniques. Participants will review their personal teaching style and, using performance tips provided in the workshop, will improve their "stage presence" in the classroom.
