

Hospital Auxiliary Trainees As Enthused As Schoolgirls

Faith in the proposed $3½ million dollar 196-bed North Arundel Hospital has put a group of ambitious north area women in cherry-red uniforms at University Hospital.

As enthusiastic as a bunch of school girls, these future members of the North Arundel Hospital Auxiliary are stepped in "on the job training" every Tuesday and Wednesday mornings from 10:30 A.M. to 2:30 P.M.

Women enrolled in this course are getting first-hand information on the vital role auxiliary members play in a busy hospital. In turn, under the direction of Mrs. Albert Grzech, they will train other north county women for auxiliary duties when the projected hospital becomes a reality.

Mrs. Grzech, only woman member of the North Arundel Hospital Association hospital executive board, planned the program under the supervision of Mrs. Mervin Pierpont, president of the Women's Volunteer Auxiliary at University Hospital.

Actual training at University is under the guiding hand of Miss Dorothy C. Unger, director of Volunteer Services at University. The local area trainees are learning pointers in the following hospital departments: library, canteen, student cafeteria, information desk, dermatology, pediatrics, sewing and stenographic.

"It is an inspiration to work with the future volunteers of the North Arundel Hospital," says Miss Unger. "I am happy with cooperation that I am receiving from them. I am particularly happy with the way the group has captured the spirit of volunteer services here at University hospital."

And, Robert E. Lawson, director of pharmacy, who has been instructing the volunteers since Sept. 30, reports, "The members have approached their assigned tasks with the seriousness required of the regularly employed hospital employes."

Miss Unger and Mrs. Grzech are now making plans for a second group to begin training. A night course also will be established in the near future.

Miss Trudy Crockett, due to illness, is performing her sewing group duties at home. Her hours are being credited towards the course however.

Taking the course are Mrs. Grzech, Mrs. Helen Smilko, Mrs. Elton Fallon, Mrs. Nelson Stinchcomb, Mrs. Lewis Tawney, Mrs. John Naumann, and Mrs. John Milton, Mrs. Charles St. Clair and Mrs. Herbert Bradwater.

Mrs. Lewis Tawney, Jr., Mrs. Charles St. Clair and Mrs. Herbert Broadwater. Mrs. John Naumann and Mrs. John Milton, also taking the course, are not pictured above. These women will serve as hospital auxiliary volunteers when the North Arundel Hospital is built.
