

Camp Columbia, Cuba,
February 28th 1901.

My dear Annie:

I was disappointed
at not receiving a letter from you yesterday but perhaps it will come tomorrow. This being Thursday no mail arrived today.

This was the last of the month
but I shall not be paid until tomorrow. I am still waiting for that extra compensation and I shall make inquiries in the morning.
Just as soon as I get there I shall apply for my passage back.

There is no news of any interest so I shall write of an before I leave.
With love from your affectionate husband
James.
